"Praise the LORD, call upon His name, declare His doings among the people, make mention that His name is exalted." Is 12:46

Students:

There will be a noon dismissal tomorrow, Nov. 3, for staff CPR training and certification. We will have periods 1-4 in the morning. There will not be bussing at noon.

We are now into the 2nd marking period. Students have been working hard. Parents who are need of their JMC password should feel free to contact the office.

We are planning to do J-term again with the students next January. Watch for details in the next two months!

General:

From the Teacher Appreciation Committee:

During the month of November, we would like to express our thankfulness to our teachers by giving them K-cups to enjoy throughout their school days, as they recently received a Keurig in their faculty room. Coffees of all sorts, hot chocolate, teas, etc. are more than welcome. There is a K-cup drop box in the hallway at school that will remain in place throughout the entire month. Let us shower our teachers with K-cups and keep them supplied for the rest of the year!

From the Athletic Director:

From the AD:

The Volleyball teams and the Cross Country teams have both finished their seasons with the State Cross Country meet happening this past Saturday.

Congratulations to Braxton Brummel for running a great race on Saturday afternoon. He placed #37 out of 152 runners, with a time of 17:51. Braxton represented Trinity Christian very well. Thank you to all those that came to cheer him on.

Basketball official practices begin on Nov 9 with girls, and Nov 16 with boys. Girls first game is Nov 24 at River Valley. The first home game is Dec 1. We will be needing MANY volunteers again for this year. We will need score keepers, clock runners, court sweepers, and gate takers. More information will be coming out in the next week on how to sign up for these things.

Thoughts to Think Upon:

He made it again. Three years in a row. What a way to finish as a senior. To state. All the way to Fort Dodge to again give his all. He ran hard, as always. He did his best, as he always does. No energy left when he was done. He spent it all. He really did awesome. 37th out of 152 runners. That's outstanding by my standards. A joy to watch. A thrill to coach. Way to go Braxton! You did great!

But more than that...most impressive...a truer indication of who this young man is, a clear testimony of where his heart as a Christian is, was what was taking place in the finish line area after he was finished and the race was finishing up and runners laid exhausted all around. There you could find and observe Braxton, following the "heat" of competition, going to collapsed runner after runner, to lend a hand to help them all up and give them a "fist pump" of congratulations. He didn't know any of them. In fact, he had just competed against all of them and some of them likely beat him. Didn't matter to Braxton. What was important to Braxton was to demonstrate how, on the heels of competition, we should still remember what's most important. To show who we are and who we represent. To be good sports no matter if we win or lose.

So no Braxton didn't come home having won the race. He isn't the state champion. He didn't even medal. But what Braxton did accomplish on Saturday down in Fort Dodge, at the Iowa State Cross Country Meet in front of hundreds of people, was to come in first in what it should be all about. Go out there and do your best. Use your God-given abilities as best you can and do it to God's glory. And as you do so, let everybody see that it's not about whether you win or lose, but it's about having the proper attitude and perspective on what you're doing and then being humble in victory and gracious in defeat.

Way to go Braxton! You came home a "winner" in my mind and heart Saturday!
